Circulated to 108,000 homes and businesses by Hackney Council

Issue 416 4 December 2017

The state-of-the-art Britannia Leisure Centre will include a six-lane main pool with a moveable floor

MAKING A SPLASH

THE first images of what the brand new, state-of-the-art Britannia Leisure Centre could look like have been released.

The centre is part of a wider project on the site in Shoreditch, which will also provide a new secondary school for local children and new Council social rented and shared ownership homes, as well as private housing, the sale of which will part fund the programme.

The new centre, which is due to open before the old one closes, has been designed following feedback from residents and users. It will include:

- A six-lane, 25m main pool with moveable floor
- A 20m x 10m training pool with moveable floor
- Leisure pool for children and families with water features and a flume
- A café and toilets (also serving Shoreditch Park)
- A six-court sports hall
- Crèche and soft play area
- Sauna and steam room
- Fitness suite, spin studio and two exercise studios
- Four squash courts
- Two five-a-side pitches
- Two tennis courts.

Cllr Jon Burke, Cabinet Member for Energy, Sustainability and Community Services, said: "We're excited to share these images of the new Britannia Leisure Centre.

"I hope they give residents an idea of our commitment to delivering a 21st century leisure centre in Shoreditch for the people of Hackney.

"While the existing centre might just look a bit tatty, beneath the surface, the truth is more serious. Estimates for bringing the building up to a standard well below the new facility are in the region of £14-17million, and we would need to close Britannia for up to two years while works took place.

Hackney Today is published by the London Borough of Hackney. It has a print run of 108,000 copies and is delivered free to every home and business in the borough. The Council uses it to communicate public service information to residents. It is published fortnightly in order to carry statutory advertising, such as planning and traffic notices, which is cheaper for the taxpayer than using another local paper. The law does not allow for statutory notices to be published solely online or in a less frequent publication.

The paper's official, door-to-door delivery is 91,665 copies per issue, Audit Bureau of Circulations (ABC)

Designs for better living

The development will include a school, affordable homes and state-of-the-art leisure facilities

"Instead, we're committed to providing a much better leisure facility, and will not need to close the existing centre until the new one is ready. In working with architects to design the new centre, we've taken on board feedback from existing users and the wider public, through more than 100,000 leaflets delivered to residents and around 20 public engagement sessions. I hope people will be as enthusiastic about the designs as we are, and we look forward to sharing more details about the rest of the site in due course."

Residents can find out more about the plans for the project by visiting Britannia Leisure Centre where the information is being displayed in the foyer until 9 December.

> "We're committed to providing a better facility and will not need to close the old centre until the new one is ready"

Further details about the school and housing will be shared soon. A planning application for the whole site is due to be finalised in spring 2018. If approved, the new leisure centre will open in 2021.

Rights for children

Deputy Mayor Anntoinette Bramble joined pupils from Shoreditch Park Primary School to celebrate Universal Children's Day last month

PUPILS at Shoreditch Park primary marked Universal Children's Day with a visit from the Deputy Mayor of Hackney.

Cllr Anntoinette Bramble watched a presentation on the UN convention on children's rights and how this is promoted at the school.

Pupils also took part in a question and answer session with the Deputy Mayor on 24 November, discussing her role at the Council, a child's right to a good education and the rights of child refugees.

The Deputy Mayor said: "It was great to hear such an articulate argument from the pupils on why rights for children are so important.

"Their awareness and concern for fellow children across the world was very moving. Seeing such great compassion from Hackney's next generation of residents was sincerely uplifting."

Universal Children's Day takes place on 20 November, the date in 1989 when the UN General Assembly adopted the convention on children's rights.

As well as giving a presentation on the convention, the children had also written to MPs and the Mayor of Hackney to advocate for universal education and rights for child migrants.

> "Seeing such great compassion from Hackney's next generation of residents was sincerely uplifting"

Head teacher, Penny Smith, said: "The children benefitted immensely from meeting Deputy Mayor Bramble and gained an insight into local democracy."

As well as being a centre of excellence for inclusion, Shoreditch Park Primary School is part of the Unicef Rights Respecting School initiative, which teaches children about their rights and how they can improve their local community and advocate for children cross the world.

Roderick, a Year 5 pupil, said: "I like going to Shoreditch Park because we always try our best to help people, so when I am older I will have the confidence to help other people in the community."

News in brief

Reducing traffic at London Fields

THE Council is to consult on further traffic reduction schemes in the London Fields area.

The proposals include installing a 'bus gate' on Westgate Street to restrict through traffic; preventing cars from driving or stopping outside London Fields Primary School in the mornings and afternoons; and banning left turns onto Richmond Road from Mare Street.

This adds to the closures on Darnley Road and Loddiges Road currently under construction and restrictions outside Gayhurst School consulted on earlier this year.

On Queensbridge Road, the Council is currently consulting on putting signals at the junction with Middleton Road, and wider pavements and more trees outside Queensbridge Primary School. Funding is also being sought from TfL for improvements for the rest of the road, including protected space for cyclists. Residents will receive consultation packs in the post. To find out more about these schemes, including a map of their locations, visit: hackney.gov.uk/london-fields-streets

Mayor fights HIV stigma

THE Mayor of Hackney Philip Glanville took an HIV test on World AIDS Day to encourage residents to do the same at a number of pop-up clinics in the borough.

Cllr Jonathan McShane, left, and Mayor Glanville at the launch of World Aids Day

He visited a pop-up clinic run by Homerton hospital at Hackney Service Centre on 1 December.

Mayor Glanville said: "I'm proud that Hackney Council is leading the way and supporting the 'Do It London' campaign and I will continue to personally champion HIV awareness and fight stigma."

The Mayor also took part in the Positive East Red Run with Cllr Jonathan McShane; joined East London council leaders at Waltham Forest Town Hall to make a joint World AIDS Day statement; and switched on the Rio cinema's Christmas lights, featuring a World Aids Day themed tree, as part of Dalston's annual illuminations.

Castleforge Partners will redevelop the Haggerston Baths building

Haggerston Baths revamp a step closer

A DEVELOPER has been chosen to refurbish and redevelop Haggerston Baths by the Council.

The agreement will allow private equity firm Castleforge Partners to apply for listed building consent and planning permission for a scheme to incorporate space for businesses, shops and a café, as well as community uses such as a clinic, health centre, day care centre or public hall.

Following a competitive bidding process and public consultation, 54 per cent of respondents said they supported the Castleforge proposal, compared to just 33 per cent who supported the other shortlisted scheme.

Castleforge will have to cover the cost of the work and then pay the Council rent for an annual lease.

Mayor of Hackney, Phillip Glanville, said: "I am particularly happy that designating the pool hall for uses accessible to the community will ensure that Hackney residents will once again have access to this much loved historic building. Before we started this process the Victorian Society named Haggerston Baths as one of the country's top ten most endangered buildings.

"I hope this project will guarantee a long-term and self-sustaining future for the building and secure jobs for Hackney residents."

Simply having a wonderful

The mood is right, the spirits up and the borough has a host of events for everyone

HACKNEY is set to sparkle with a bumper month of festive events, seasonal entertainment, and illuminations across the borough.

The countdown to Christmas started with the switching on of lights in Hackney Town Hall Square on 26 November.

A traditional tree joined five beautifully lit Christmas trees on display in Old Street, Dalston Square, Prince Edward Road and outside Stoke Newington Fire Station.

There is also a Hackney Pride 365 tree atop the Rio cinema, in Dalston, which was lit up to mark World Aids Day on 1 December.

Residents are being encouraged to shop local this month with a multitude of Christmas markets offering unique gifts from independent traders.

There's also plenty of festive fare on offer at one of the borough's many restaurants, cafes and street food stalls for those wanting grab a bite to eat while on Christmas errands.

Alongside the markets, Hackney's Christmas highlights this year include a free Santa's Grotto in Hackney's oldest building; an East End style knees up; Bach for babies; and a Christmas swing dance.

There are lots of events to enjoy in Hackney during the festive season

The borough's annual event showcasing advice for the over 55s was its best attended yet

Let's get set for winter

Christine Chinaka, left, with Felicia Ikweke; 10. Deputy Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Clare Potter chats with residents

ON the coldest day of the year so far, it was apt that over 900 Hackney residents turned up for the annual Winter Warmer at Hackney Town Hall.

The popular free event, on 30 November, was organised for the borough's over-55s. The showcase provides residents with valuable advice on staying fit, healthy and saving energy throughout the winter months.

Jean More, 65, from Stoke Newington, said: "The Winter Warmer is very good, I've never been before, but as my neighbour was going this year I thought I'd come along. It's been really fun, everyone is really friendly and I got to meet lots of new people."

As well as complimentary hot soup and a sandwich, residents could pick up advice and goody bags from more than 30 vendors.

A popular stall was run by a volunteer for Hackney Matters who handed out free books and let people know about all the activities on offer for older people across Hackney's eight libraries.

Visitors were also able to watch healthy eating demonstrations and collect recipe cards from community kitchen Made In Hackney, as well as pick up a free bag of fruit and veg provided by Tesco.

The popular Winter Warmer event has been run by the Council since 2009

Elizabeth Adimado, 79, from Hoxton, said: "I come to the Winter Warmer every year, I never miss it. It's much better than staying at home. Here, you can meet people and learn about new things, it was really interesting speaking to the people on the energy savings stall."

The wellbeing hub saw queues of residents keen to unwind with a professional hand, foot and shoulder massage.

There were also lots of fun and games at tables dotted around the hall. Plus entertaining performances by Immediate Theatre and Singing for the Brain.

As well as local charity and voluntary organisations, residents also had the chance to speak directly to staff from across the Council including the housing, public health and community safety teams.

> "I come to the Winter Warmer every year, I never miss it! Here, you can meet people and learn new things"

Cllr Clayeon McKenzie, Cabinet Member for Housing Services, said: "It was great to see yet another successful Winter Warmer, with hundreds of residents not only getting useful advice and seeing what's on offer in Hackney, but also meeting new friends and socialising.

"It was great to talk to residents and I can't wait until next year."

Schools for everyone

The survey results are in! How residents' views will help update borough's education policy

MORE than 2,500 residents had their say on education in Hackney and the results will help to shape the future of the borough's schools.

Over the past year, the Government has made a series of major announcements about national education policy.

Through the 'Hackney: Schools For Everyone' survey, the Council hoped to find out residents' views on the local education system and what they want it to be like in the future.

The results show that on the whole, residents believe education in Hackney has improved; they oppose academic selection and forced academisation; they believe that the Council should oversee the school admissions process and ensure it's fair; and want schools to be inclusive.

The Council last surveyed residents about education in 2003, and the response helped to shape the schools it built and the approach Hackney has to education.

The 2017 results will help the Council to update policies and future plans for schools.

Over 80% said school places, equal opportunities and maintaining high standards were all priorities for Hackney's schools

At this stage the Council has pledged to:

- Work hard to protect the values that have contributed to the success of Hackney schools
- Do all it can to maintain the close links to the borough's whole family of schools to ensure it can support them to access important services like school improvement and admissions
- Respond to future Government policies on behalf of Hackney's schools, parents and residents
- Ensure there are adequate school places for local children in Hackney schools
- Continue to campaign for fair funding for all the borough's schools, including more funding for special educational needs and disabilities.

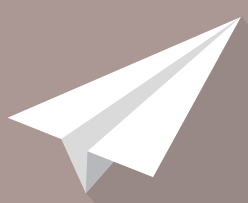

80% were concerned with lack of school places as a result of rapid population growth

> "The responses to this survey will inform our response to national education policies and proposals"

Deputy Mayor, Cllr Anntoinette Bramble, said: "Schools in Hackney have been transformed beyond recognition over the past 15 years. Where once we had some of the worst schools, we now have some of the very best, and to enable us to continue to improve, it's important we understand the sorts of schools our residents want.

"Grammar schools and forced academisation may be off the table for now, but they are clearly still on the Government's agenda, and the responses to this survey will inform our response to national education policies and proposals over the coming years.

"I'd like to thank everyone who took the time to share their views."

73% said education had improved a lot or improved in recent years

57% rated secondary schools as very good/good

68% were concerned with schools introducing selection based on academic results

73% were concerned with forced academisation

67% rated primary schools as very good/good

MORE INFO

The schools questionnaire was sent out with Hackney Today and a series of focus groups and workshops were held to ensure responses were as representative of the whole borough as possible. A full report is available at: hackney.gov.uk/education

New City College Hackney team is heading to national basketball finals next year after winning the London regional title

A HACKNEY basketball team has slam-dunked its way to success, winning a London-wide championship.

In a nail-biting contest, New City College (NCC) Hackney's Basketball Academy beat Ealing, Hammersmith and West London College in the final of the AoC Sport London Regional Championship. The team will now go on to take part in national finals in April.

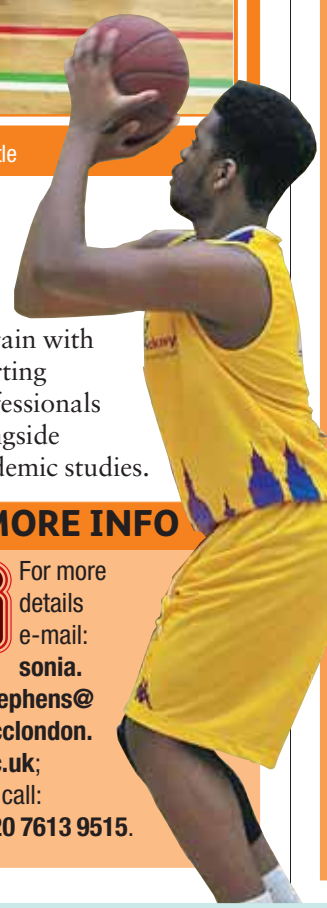

Sonia Stephens, Sports Academy Manager at NCC Hackney, said: "The basketball team train hard and this is proof their commitment pays off.

"Our partnership with the London Lions has enabled us to provide our students with professional standard training, which assists with their individual development.

"The dedicated training hours, strength and conditioning, allows the team to be confident and show their potential in every game. Students have the opportunity to test their skills throughout the year, enabling them to aim high in competitions."

> "The dedicated training hours, strength and conditioning allows the team to be confident"

NCC Hackney offers BTEC Sport courses from Level 1 to Level 3, and its sports academies are open to all students, offering them a unique opportunity to train with sporting professionals alongside academic studies.

News in brief

Stay, play and train in childcare

Play and learn on Tuesday mornings

AS figures show demand for childminders outstripping supply, a new scheme on Kingsmead estate is aiming to turn the tide.

People interested in becoming childminders can get free advice and support at a new 'stay and play' session at Kingsmead Community Centre. Registered childminders will be on hand to answer questions and point people in the direction of training.

The sessions are every Tuesday, from 10am to 12noon, during term-time. They are open to children and parents, with indoor and outdoor activities to enjoy.

Toby Moore, from Sanctuary Housing which funds the sessions, said: "They are the ideal opportunity for parents and carers to spend time with their children in a different environment. In addition, they can learn about a potential new career."

High praise for 'orderly' school

Haggerston received a good grade

A LOCAL school has been praised for its 'calm and orderly' environment and 'strong sense of community' as Ofsted inspectors awarded it a 'good' grade.

The schools inspection body published its assessment of Haggerston School in November. New head teacher Ciara Ammerson, who took up the post in September, said: "We are delighted that the inspectors agreed with our own evaluations and we were graded 'good' in all categories."

Ofsted's report praised the 'sharp understanding' of the school's staff, as well as the 'high expectations' they have of their pupils. English, expressive arts and modern foreign languages were highlighted as 'particularly strong', with students displaying 'good subject knowledge'.

Garden takes learning to new heights

A SMART new, architect-designed roof garden has been opened in Stoke Newington. It boasts a social space with artificial turf sofas, a 'reading café' complete with edible plants and is not based in a trendy co-working space, but in a primary school.

William Patten's new roof garden was dreamt up by head teacher Karen Law, who envisaged 'a beautiful and useful garden, and an outdoor classroom'.

Over the course of an academic year, landscape architect Elsie Josland engaged the whole school in the design process. Children's views were sought and explored through design workshops and assemblies. Students on the school council drew up plans for the garden.

The completed roof garden includes an outdoor classroom, a greenhouse and a wildlife area. There is an outdoor art area and each class has its own growing space.

Elsie said: "I believe outdoor play and learning helps kids develop healthy, active lifestyles and gives them a sense of well-being. It also helps them understand and respect the natural environment."

Cinema In The Snow

8-24 Dec, Hackney Showroom

IF you're dreaming of a white Christmas, Hackney Snowroom – sorry, Showroom – has you covered this year. From 8 December right up to Christmas Eve, they are collaborating with Pop Up Screens to create a cinematic winter wonderland.

Outside, the drizzle might be falling on Amhurst Terrace. But pass through a wardrobe, pushing past the winter coats, and you'll find yourself at Cinema in the Snow – aptly named, since you will stomp to your seat through the white stuff before sitting down to watch a proper Christmas classic.

Choose between 'Elf' on 8, 9, 10, 12 and 20 December; 'Home Alone', 10 December; 'Miracle on 34th Street', 17 December; 'It's a Wonderful Life', 22 December and more.

Doors open well before films start, so you can enjoy the falling flakes and the bar, brownies, popcorn, hot chocolate, mulled wine and merriment. Tickets are £20, or £10 for under 10s.

Main picture: Watch classic festive films in a snowy setting. From top right: Enter via a wardrobe, into a festive setting and watch a classic movie

Puss In Boots

Until 28 Dec, Hoxton Hall, 130 Hoxton St, N1 6SH

The classic fairy tale 'Puss In Boots' tells the story of Colin. Left facing a future on the streets of Hoxton, he receives news of his inheritance: his father's old tabby cat, affectionately known as Puss.

How will Colin ever win the heart of Princess Alice? Written and directed by Marc Day, who was also responsible for last year's 'Red Riding Hood' at Hoxton Hall, this production of a much-loved story promises to be jam-packed with original music by Chris Burgees, dance, comedy and, of course, audience participation. Expect bravery, trickery, and the ability to respond to any situation from the legend that is Puss.

'Puss In Boots' is on at Hoxton Hall from 13 to 28 December. Tickets are priced at £15.50 for adults, £12.50 for children and concessions.

REVIEW

Cinderella

Until 31 December, Hackney Empire, 291 Mare St, E8 1EJ

THE story of Cinderella – a young girl who cooks and cleans and waits for a prince to sweep her off her feet – can sometimes seem a little outmoded for modern times. Not, however, at Hackney Empire, where the old tale has been revitalised to spectacular, glittering, all-singing-and-dancing effect.

Susie McKenna's 20th panto is glorious from start to finish. Aisha Jawando plays an unapologetically outspoken Cinderella, who runs rings around foppish Prince Charming (played by Chris Jenkins).

McKenna herself does vampish step-mother like no one else can. Kat B and Tony Whittle get the biggest laughs as the Ugly Sisters – Queeniqua and Victiqua – who fly on-stage in a stolen hot air-balloon and go on to steal the show itself with an excruciating performance of Despacito and one of the best bits of audience participation in the Empire's modern history (we won't spoil it for you).

The night's biggest boo is reserved for Donald Trump and there is a scattering of Brexit jokes thanks to an Italian Dandini whose breath-taking tap dance routine will surely keep him in work even should his fears of deportation be realised.

Mostly, however, Cinderella is an oasis of joyful escapism. Richard Roe choreographs some dazzling big dance numbers, the children look gorgeous in 1950s costume. Cinderella's dress and gloves dance in the dark under UV lights and the entire audience gasps as a flying horse pulls her enchanted carriage. The magic of Christmas, in other words, starts here.

Cinderalla runs until 31 December at Hackney Empire. Tickets start at £10. For more information visit: www.hackneyempire.co.uk

Equality is the key

The event heard from Council services and voluntary sector organisations

AN ambitious programme to increase opportunities for young black men is underway in Hackney.

The Improving Outcomes for Young Black Men (YBM programme) was initiated by the Council three years ago in response to stark inequalities facing youth in the borough.

An event was held at Hackney House on 16 November to tell an invited audience more about the programme and get their feedback on the work so far.

Deputy Mayor of Hackney, Cllr Anntoinette Bramble, said: "Education, unemployment and health are still major areas of inequality for young black men in Hackney.

"Two years ago the Mayor and I set out a bold vision that in 10 years' time we would want to see the outcomes for young black men to be the same as the wider population, and to challenge negative portrayals of young black men in the media.

"We are at a time now when enough is enough; we are not accepting the pay gap and gender disparities between men and women in employment across the board, similarly we are saying that we do not accept negative media portrayals and poorer outcomes for young black men either."

> "We want to see a closing of the education gap, more diversity within institutions across Hackney and beyond"

The YBM programme is a joint initiative with Hackney Council for Voluntary Services (HCVS) involving health, education, family and children services, the community and voluntary sector organisations.

Work has taken place across the Council's youth services to ensure its practices meet the objectives of the YBM programme and this is now being rolled out across other Council departments.

Parents and headteachers in the borough are also looking at how young black boys can move on successfully from primary to secondary schools and reduce the risk of being excluded.

Mayor Philip Glanville added: "The young black men programme is tackling a real area of inequality.

"We want to see a closing of the education gap, more diversity within institutions across Hackney and beyond, more leadership from, and for young black men, and all levels of the Council reflecting the diversity of Hackney residents."

News in brief

Pupils impress the star judges

A PANEL of famous faces sat down to judge an annual talent competition at The Anna Fiorentini Theatre and Film School.

The event on 18 November featured young people from Hackney, Tower Hamlets, Camden and Greenwich, who performed in front of celebrity judges including 'Hollyoaks' actress Ali Bastian and Tahj Miles, known from his role in CBBC's 'Class Dismissed'.

Alice de Sousa, executive producer of last year's box office hit 'A Street Cat Named Bob', also joined the panel, alongside top casting director Emma Sylvester. She said: "The Anna Fiorentini students are the stars of tomorrow, performing with integrity, honesty and confidence. They are a joy to witness and food for thought for my future casting projects."

This year's winner was Jessica Odeleye, who stunned the judges with her dance routine. A Hackney girl, Jessica won a bursary to the school and is a member of the Fiorentini Performance troupe, which tours hospitals and care homes to entertain residents.

The People's Choice Award went to Daniel Walsh, also a Hackney resident. He performed a monologue from 'The Moon's the Madonna', a play by Richard Cameron.

Not3s returns to old school to inspire students

MOBO nominated musician Not3s went back to school to share the secrets of his success with current students.

On the anniversary of his breakthrough hit 'Addison Lee', the young artist from North Hackney visited BSix College, where he had taken part in music lessons as a teenager.

Students enjoyed an acoustic performance, streamed on Facebook Live, and were able to ask Not3s questions about his experiences of breaking into the music industry, insider tips for young artists and his influences.

Not3s, 19, who is also a former Hackney youth parliament member, spoke about growing up in the borough and its influence on his music.

He said: "There are loads of different types of people in Hackney, different ethnicities and cultural backgrounds, growing up with people from different cultures means you're learning different things. I think that could be a big influence on some of the things that I've done."

Nikolas Okoroafor, 18, from Dalston, said: "I was really inspired by Not3s' story, when you see local artists come back to their home, where you're from too, it makes you feel like if you work hard you can make it to where they are."

Hackney's Not3s visited his old college last month

The event last month was organised by MTV Breaks, in partnership with the Council's Discover Young Hackney cultural festival and Hackney Music Service.

Tobias Silvester, music lecturer at BSix, added: "We were delighted to host the live streaming event at the college and it's a pleasure to be able to support artists such as Not3s who are just part of the wealth of musical talent in the borough."

Beating isolation

Silver Linings opened clubs across the borough, including one at Fellows Court Community Centre (top left), for older people to socialise

A LOCAL project to combat social isolation among elderly people, has been praised by the Mayor of London.

The Silver Linings Project, which was started by Groundwork London in 2015, set up four clubs across the borough.

The 'Craft for a Cause' club at Ben Simons Hall; 'Get Fit While You Sit' at Trowbridge Pensioners Hall; 'Mosaic Makeover Club' at Fellows Court Community Centre; and 'Cook n Share' clubs at Groundwork London's office all became fun spaces in which older people could volunteer, get active and socialise.

Over the project's two-year life span, 151 older people from Hackney attended one of the clubs; 149 activity sessions, tasters and events were organised; and over 3,000 hours were volunteered.

> "These types of initiatives are vital in helping to reduce social isolation within an aging population"

While the funding came to an end this year, the clubs' impact was recognised on 6 November when Silver Linings was shortlisted in the 'community action' category of the Team London Awards. Held at City Hall, the event saw the project celebrated by the Major of London.

Ben Coles, Director of Communities and Environmental Services, at Groundwork London, said: "We're delighted that our Silver Linings members' hard work has been recognised by the Team London Awards.

"The clubs have helped people share their new skills with the over 50s population in Hackney, while at the same time getting out of the house and forging friendships.

"These types of initiatives are vital in helping to reduce social isolation within an aging population.

New funding has now been secured from the Morrisons Foundation, allowing the weekly 'Cook n Share' club to continue.

Edward Bohling, from Groundwork London, added: "This £11,000 donation will enable us to build on the huge successes of our project. We are extremely grateful to the Morrisons Foundation for their support."

Giving hope to survive addiction

THE Council supported Alcohol Awareness Week by setting up information stalls at Hackney Service Centre and Tesco, in Morning Lane, for residents to get advice and support. There were representatives from local support services, including Hackney Recovery Service and the Young Hackney Substance Misuse Service.

Mona became a peer mentor at Hackney Recovery Service after going into residential rehabilitation last year.

She said: "It was tough. But I knew this was a journey I had to take for myself. I want to carry on being active in my own recovery and learn as much as I can, and to gain hands on experience and paper qualifications in all aspects of recovery.

"I also want to be able to help others going into recovery and share with them that you can have a life and fun after addiction. And that it just keeps getting better and better. And that there is hope."

Dementia friendly guide for cinemas launched

A NATIONAL dementia-awareness campaign was launched at a Hackney cinema last month.

Someone develops dementia every three minutes in the UK, and it is set to affect a million people by 2021. An Alzheimer's Society survey revealed 69 per cent of people with dementia cite lack of confidence as the main reason they stop going out.

In response, the society has collaborated with film industry experts to produce 'Dementia Friendly Screenings: a guide for cinemas'. It is calling on theatres and cinemas across the UK to hold screenings for those with the condition.

The initiative was launched at Hackney Picturehouse, with many of the industry's most influential film bodies in attendance. Lorraine Brown, who grew up in Hackney and was diagnosed with early-onset Alzheimer's in 2014, aged 61, spoke at the event.

She said: "I've always loved going to the cinema, but it isn't always easy being a customer with dementia. There are lots of changes cinemas can make so that people, like me, feel confident to continue doing the things they love. When my local cinema lit up the aisle better, I could see my seat number and easily get in and out of the room if I needed to."

A healthy eating programme from Shoreditch Trust

SHOREDITCH Trust's Food For Life programme works with members of the community to encourage affordable healthy eating, cooking skills and food knowledge.
Also known as whole-wheat barley, hulled barley is high in the type of fibre that helps to lower cholesterol, and has an intensely nutty flavour. Winter squash is high in C and B vitamins and carotenes, which have been shown to have a preventative effect against developing type 2 diabetes.
This winter salad makes a great side dish and the leftovers can easily be reheated for a warming lunch. It can be eaten alone or with baked fish or meat.

Winter squash salad

Makes two servings

Preparation time
15 mins

Cooking time
40 mins

Ingredients

- 1 medium squash (acorn, butternut or delicata are all in season at the moment)
- 150g hulled barley
- 1 small onion (finely chopped)
- Large handful of greens such as chard or kale
- 1 lemon (juice)
- 1 clove of garlic (finely chopped)
- 2 tablespoons olive oil
- ½ teaspoon chilli flakes
- 1 teaspoon fresh thyme leaves (picked from the stalk)
- Black pepper to season
- 2 tablespoons pumpkin seeds
- Optional: 50g feta or Parmesan cheese.

Method

- Preheat the oven to 220c-200c fan/gas mark 7
- Cook the barley according to packet instructions and when finished, set aside (wholegrain basmati rice can be used instead)
- Slice the squash in half, remove the seeds and cut into 4-6 large pieces. Place in a roasting tray and drizzle with 1 tablespoon of olive oil. Season with the chilli flakes and black pepper and place in the oven for 30-40 minutes (or until soft and golden)
- Meanwhile, finely chop the greens (including the stalks), onion and garlic. Add 1 tablespoon olive oil to a pan and sauté the onion over a medium heat until it starts to turn translucent. Add the garlic and the stalks from the greens and cook briefly until softened, then add the leaves. Turn off the heat, and, if the barley and the squash are not yet cooked, set the greens aside until they are ready
- Add the barley or rice to the pan and mix through with the greens. Squeeze over the juice of one lemon and the fresh thyme leaves
- Leave the squash in large slices, on a plate, or cut them into roughly 2 inch cubes and combine them in a shallow dish with the greens. Sprinkle over the pumpkin seeds and (if using) the cheese.

Creating a strategy for Hackney's growth over next ten years

RESIDENTS are being asked to have their say on a community strategy which sets out the Council's vision for the borough over the next decade.

The Draft Community Strategy will build on a 2015 borough wide consultation 'Hackney: A Place for Everyone,' to which more than 4,500 residents responded.

It sets out the Council's aspirations for Hackney in 2028 and will inform its decision making over the next ten years.

The Mayor of Hackney, Philip Glanville, said: "Hackney has changed enormously since our last Community Strategy in 2008, with thousands of new jobs, new homes, the best schools in the country and a revolution in transport infrastructure.

"The new community strategy sets out how we intend to make sure that all of Hackney's communities continue to be a part of the borough's success, giving us the opportunity to shape what our borough should be like in 10 years time and address the challenges we face as a local authority."

Residents can respond to the consultation by visiting: www.hackney.gov.uk/community-strategy; or by calling: 020 8356 2053 to request a paper copy. The consultation closes on 14 January.

Proposals for investing in provision for children with SEND

THE Council has been awarded up to £2million of Government funding to invest in facilities for children with special educational needs and disabilities (SEND).

This funding will be used to create new classroom spaces, or expand existing provision, to help support the increasing number of students in the borough with SEND.

The proposals will focus on increasing capacity for students with Autism Spectrum Disorder (ASD) and those with Social, Emotional or Mental Health (SEMH) needs.

To download more information on the proposals, or to take part in the consultation, visit: consultation.hackney.gov.uk and search for 'investing in SEND'.

The consultation will close on 18 January. For further information, e-mail: consultation@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 1739.

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by residents and serve for four years. The last borough-wide elections took place in May 2014.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee Council services.

They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see.

Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – see map below.

Hackney's executive Mayor Philip Glanville was directly elected by the borough in 2016. He is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. The Mayor holds monthly casework surgeries in the Town Hall.
To book an appointment, e-mail: mayor@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3269. Residents are first encouraged to contact their ward councillor. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney, who is chosen annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Soraya Adejare.

LONDON BOROUGH OF HACKNEY

THE HACKNEY (CALVERT AVENUE) (TRAFFIC MANAGEMENT AND PARKING) (EXPERIMENTAL) ORDER 2017

TT1254

1. NOTICE is hereby given that on 1st December 2017, the London Borough of Hackney made an Experimental Traffic Order under the Road Traffic Regulation Act 1984 ("the Act") and all other enabling powers.

2. The Experimental Traffic Order, which comes into operation on 8th December 2017, will:-

- Introduce no waiting at any time on the south side of Calvert Avenue - west of Boundary Street to facilitate a 'Parklet' seating area.

3. The reason for proceeding by way of an Experimental Traffic Order is to assess the effects and need for the 'Parklet' seating area.

4. These changes will be introduced for a trial period before consideration is given to whether the provisions of the Experimental Traffic Order should be made permanent.

5. Plans of the proposed measures can be inspected Mondays to Fridays between 9am – 5pm for a period of 6 months from the date, on which this notice is published, in the visitor's reception area, London Borough of Hackney, Hackney Service Centre, 1 Hillman Street, London, E8 1DY. Further information may be obtained by contacting Helpdesk on 020 8356 8991.

6. The experimental provisions can continue in force for a maximum of 18 months trial period before a permanent Order is considered. Within a period of 6 months from the coming into operation of the Experimental Traffic Order any person may object to the making of a permanent Order. Any objection should be in writing, giving the grounds on which it is made and be addressed to the Head of Streetscene at the address given in paragraph 5 above. Any comments in support of the Experimental Traffic Order are also invited during this period.

Any person wishing to question the validity of the Experimental Traffic Order or any of its provisions on the grounds that it is not within the powers of the relevant enabling Act or that a requirement of any such enabling Act or of any relevant regulations made there under has not been complied with may, within six weeks from the date on which the experimental Traffic Order was made, make application for this purpose to the High Court.

Using your local health services over the winter in City and Hackney

NHS

Don't just go to hospital – if you feel unwell there are many ways to get advice or treatment.

Self-care

Hangover, sore throat, coughs, colds

- The best place for you is at home in the warm - rest and drink plenty of non-alcoholic fluids
- Plan ahead - stock up on paracetamol and indigestion remedies

Your local pharmacy

Diarrhoea, painful cough, headache, other minor ailments, emergency contraceptives

- Your local pharmacist can give you expert, confidential advice and treatment for a range of minor illnesses or injuries – many are open six days a week and you do not need an appointment
- Plan ahead - ask your local pharmacy about their opening times, find out online at www.cityandhackneyccg.nhs.uk

Your GP

Ear pain, back ache, vomiting, depression, long-term conditions (e.g. diabetes, asthma)

- Make sure you are registered with a City & Hackney GP. Visit www.nhs.uk to find your local surgery
- Your GP is the first place to go to for illnesses that won't go away
- For urgent appointments call as early as you can, for non-urgent appointments book between two and four weeks ahead
- You can ask for a same-day telephone consultation with a doctor
- Plan ahead - make sure you have enough prescribed medicines to last you over weekends and holiday times

Out-of-hours GPs

If your GP surgery is closed but you need to speak to a doctor urgently, you can call City and Hackney's out-of-hours GP service, CHUHSE, on 020 8185 0545. They will be able to offer you medical advice or, if necessary, arrange a same day appointment or home visit. Open 6.30pm – 8am on weekdays and 24 hours on weekends and public holidays.

NHS 111

You feel you need medical help or advice fast but are unsure what to do and don't think it's a 999 emergency

- Call if you don't have a GP, can't access a GP or don't know who else to call
- The service is available 24 hours a day by calling 111
- The service can also help you if you need a repeat prescription filled urgently when your local pharmacy is closed
- You will speak to a trained adviser, supported by nurses and paramedics, who will talk you through your symptoms and advise on what to do next

Homerton Hospital

Accident and Emergency - choking, severe chest pain, bleeding that won't stop, loss of consciousness, struggling to breathe, stroke

- Provides urgent treatment for serious, life-threatening conditions all day, every day
- Get there yourself if you can, but call 999 for an ambulance if someone is too ill to move, has collapsed or can't breathe

Emergency dental treatment

You have an urgent dental problem and your usual dental practice is closed

- Call 111 and ask to speak to the Dental Advice Service
